Course Description

This course provides a theoretical and evidence-based perspective on working with families at risk while encouraging strength and resilience. Content will include assessment of and interventions for various types of family issues that can lead to trauma such as substance abuse, family violence, grief and loss, and medical and developmental disabilities. This course will also explore various types of families involved with children and youth in the child welfare system (kinship, foster, adoptive, and intact but at risk families). Emphasis will be on strengths-based and family-centered approaches to ethical social work practice and will include skill development for intervention and evaluation of practice. Special emphasis will include diverse family formations such as single parent families and LGBTQ families. This course will utilize lecture, discussion, and case-based approaches to learning and special family types will be integrated using this case-based strategy.

Course Competencies

Council on Social Work Education (CWSE) 2015 EPAS Competencies addressed by this course specifically with FAMILIES.

  Establish meaningful, culturally sensitive and relevant professional relationships with children, youth, families, groups, organizations, and communities.

Course Objectives

633-01: Apply the essentials of family-centered case practice with families including an understanding of trauma, risk and resilience in family systems, the family in the environment, and concepts of family empowerment, recognizing the need for sensitivity to cultural diversity and special populations, such as families of color, foster families, adoptive families, kinship care, and same sex families.

633-02: Integrate the issues of trauma, risk and resilience, separation and loss into the planning process with families.

633-03: Assess and intervene with families using research-informed interventions with multiple family types.

633-04: Synthesize the principles of family preservation and the importance of permanency planning.

633-05: Analyze the ethical and values base of several models of family-centered interventions in family practice.

633-06: Evaluate and assess service needs to meet the needs of families with special groups of children, including children with physical or mental challenges and gay, lesbian, bisexual, transgendered and questioning youth.

633-07: Critically reflect on self as a professional social worker working with families at risk.

Required Readings

Course Content

This course builds on practice skills and includes specific training in structural family therapy. In addition, this course builds on a trauma-responsive framework to include interventions for families in which trauma has occurred. Students learn to complete a family assessment and treatment plan including evidence-based treatments for families in trauma. The specific issues of domestic violence, grief and loss, mental illness, and foster and adoptive families are included in this course content. Students will be required to complete a comprehensive family assessment and treatment plan based on a family with whom they are working in their field practicum. This course also includes a final examination.

Grading Standards
Papers are graded on the quality of the final product not on the effort you extended completing them. The grade of A is reserved for truly outstanding work that goes beyond basic requirements.

In the Indiana University School of Social Work MSW program, grades of B are the expected norm. Reflecting competency and proficiency, grades of B reflect good or high quality work typical of graduate students in professional schools. Indeed, professors typically evaluate students’ work in such a way that B is the average grade. Grades in both the A and the C range are relatively uncommon and reflect work that is significantly superior to or significantly inferior, respectively, to the average, high quality, professional work conducted by most IU MSW students. Because of this approach to grading, students who routinely earned A grades in their undergraduate studies may conclude that a B grade reflects a decrease in their academic performance. Such is not the case. Grades of B in the IU MSW program reflect the average, highly competent, proficient quality of our students. In a sense, a B grade in graduate school is analogous to an A grade in undergraduate studies. MSW students must work extremely hard to achieve a B grade. If you are fortunate enough receive a B, prize it as evidence of the professional quality of your work.

Grades of A reflect Excellence. Excellent scholarly products and academic or professional performances are substantially superior to the “good,” “the high quality,” “the competent,” or the “satisfactory.” They are unusual, exceptional, and extraordinary. Criteria for assignments are not only met, they are exceeded by a significant margin. Excellence is a rare phenomenon. As a result, relatively few MSW students earn A grades.

Grades of B signify good or high quality scholarly products and academic or professional performance. Grades in the B range reflect work expected of a conscientious graduate student in a professional program. Criteria for assignments are met in a competent, thoughtful, and professional manner. However, the criteria are not exceeded and the quality is not substantially superior to other good quality products or performances. There is a clear distinction between the good and the excellent. We expect that most MSW students will earn grades in the B range—reflecting the good or high quality work expected of competent future helping professionals.

Grades of C and C+ signify work that is marginal in nature. The scholarly products or professional performances meet many but not all of the expected criteria. The work approaches but does not quite meet the standards of quality expected of a graduate student in a professional school. Satisfactory in many respects, its quality is not consistently so and cannot be considered of good or high quality. We anticipate that a minority of MSW students will earn C and C+ grades.

Grades of C- and lower reflect work that is unsatisfactory. The products or performances do not meet several, many, or most of the criteria. The work fails to approach the standards of quality expected of a graduate student and a future MSW-level professional. We anticipate that a small percentage of MSW students will earn unsatisfactory grades of C-, D, and F.

Grading scale

Grade minimums are as follows [Note: grades below C are Unsatisfactory in the MSW Program]:

- A 93% Excellent, Exceptional Quality
- A- 90% Superior Quality
- B+ 87% Very Good, Slightly Higher Quality
- B 83% Good, High Quality (expected of most MSW students)
- B- 80% Satisfactory Quality
- C+ 77% Marginal, Modestly Acceptable Quality
- C 73% Marginal, Minimally Acceptable Quality
- C- 70% Unsatisfactory Quality
Course Policies

Assignments
Students are expected to submit all assignments on time. If you need to extend a deadline you MUST speak to instructor prior to the due date to get an approval and an agreement will be reached. Late submission (except by prior agreement) will be marked down 5% for every day late. IU has a subscription with the Turnitin plagiarism detection service, and faculty members have the right to submit student papers to the service to check for originality. Turnitin.com service will be used for all student papers in this course.

Attendance and participation
Students are expected to attend and participate in all class sessions. Students should complete readings and homework as assigned and come to class prepared for discussion and questions. Because of the nature of this course and group assignments, regular attendance is required and extremely important. Class attendance and active participation in class activities are considered essential for the satisfactory completion of the course objectives. If you are absent, it is your responsibility to get notes from other students regarding materials covered during your absence. If you are absent on the day an assignment is due, you need to submit your assignment before the beginning of the class. Missing more than two of the scheduled classes will result in a letter-grade deduction for the course. Late arrivals and early departures will also lead to course point deductions. It is up to the instructor’s discretion to decide the deduction points. If you miss five or more classes you will fail the course.
